School Trustee Candidates

The school code requires that each candidate for the office of subdistrict trustee shall make known his intention of becoming a candidate for such office by filing, in writing, a notification to the superintendent of schools of his county district, not less than fifteen days nor more than sixty days prior to the election July 14, 1934. On the second Saturday of July between the hours of eight (8) a.m. and four (4) p.m. the election shall be held.

The law requires that each candidate for subdistrict trustee must file a pre- and a post-election expense account. The law stipulates that this pre-election expense account must be filed fifteen days before the election and the post-election account within thirty days subsequent to election. Due to the fact that so many candidates failed to file their election expense account fifteen days prior to the election, we advise those who failed to file expense accounts fifteen days before the election to file any time before the election. The courts have held that if they filed within a reasonable time it would hold.

Below you will find listed the names of the subdistrict trustee candidates in each subdistrict. Those listed include those who officially filed their intentions of becoming candidates fifteen days prior to the election. A few candidates who failed to tender their resignations were not placed on the ballot because they were already in office and held for another year or more. The names listed below are official and final to the best of my knowledge as substantiated by the records turned over to me.

LEGION NEWS

Saturday, July 7, 1934, will be the regular meeting date for Holly Coffee Post No. 68. We especially urge all of the members who can to be present at this meeting. We hope to make arrangements for transportation to the state convention, which will be held in Ashland, and to make arrangements for those who wish to make a reservation at some hotel. We also wish to discuss the matter of working up the beauty pageant that will be conducted on July 10, at 7:30 p.m., at West Liberty. Legion Posts all over the state are putting on these pageants and in putting this one on we are simply cooperating with the other Posts over the state. Miss Charlotte Russell of Morganfield, Kentucky, will be the director of this pageant, and she will also present a number of novelty numbers from home talent and they will all be good. Miss Russell has had considerable experience in working up these pageants and we hope to fill the high school auditorium on the night of the 10th when this pageant is presented. You Legionaires tell your friends about this event. If you know of some girl who should be in this pageant, or of some person who is especially good in some line of entertainment, please get in touch with Miss Russell or the adjutant of the Post at once. This is a Legion activity and we are expecting you fellows to be loyal and to put this over in a big way in the same manner that we have every other thing that we have undertaken. Be at the meeting Saturday and be at the pageant on the 10th.

J. BLAINE NICKELL, adjutant.

A Calamity Impending

Before adjourning, the state senate finally passed the whisky bill which provides for a production tax of 10c a gallon on whisky. In the debate before the legislature the argument was continually advanced that the imposition of any whisky tax beyond the 5c per gallon tax which had been previously levied would drive the distilleries out of Kentucky. The bill is now in the hands of the governor and the governor is being besieged to veto it because it would drive business out of the state. Wouldn't that be just too bad?

FEEL SHOE PINCH

Chicago, Ill., June 27 (AP).—Branding sales taxes as "unsound, inequitable, and regressive," the American Federation of Teachers today adopted a resolution calling for its abandonment and asking that in its stead reliance be placed upon income and inheritance taxes.

In another resolution the teachers demanded that tax exemptions be removed from all securities and income.

"We are quite willing to surrender our tax exemption privilege along with other citizens of the nation as a means to overcome this antisocial feature of our tax laws," the teachers, who are affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, asserted.

The resolution attacked the sales tax as a violation of the principle of ability to pay and charged that it takes an unfair share of the workers' earnings, especially when applied to food and clothing.

LIVESTOCK LOANS

"Make arrangements early for the money you will need to buy feeders and stockers this summer and fall," is the advice of Bernard E. Whitt, inspector for the Big Sandy production credit association, to prospective livestock buyers. "Already the advance guard of the seasonal run of native and western ewes is appearing at the markets. With local rains thruout the states bringing on the feed crops and pastures many farmers are looking forward to stocking up with money-making 'woolies,' remembering the comfortable profits produced during the past several seasons by these two-crop animals. Both wool and lambs have been on a profitable price basis, while the incidental gains from the farm value of the manure and thru the utilization of roughage which otherwise is wasted are important factors also.

"Money for buying stocker ewes, and for all other livestock production operations," states Mr. Whitt, "is readily available to experienced and qualified livestock farmers thru their production credit associations, which are units of the farm credit administration of Louisville and of which there are 12 in Ohio, 10 in Indiana, 12 in Kentucky, and 10 in Tennessee. The Big Sandy association, located at Paintsville, serves Morgan county.

"However, forehandedness in arranging finances is as essential to summer and fall livestock operations as planting and growing the feed supply," states Mr. Whitt. "Never before could farmers finance their program at 5 percent interest a year, which is the present cost of money thru production credit associations. Some borrowers, however, have been disappointed that the association could not simply accept the loan application and pass the money out over the counter the same day. Borrowers should allow ten days to two weeks time for securing loans. Plan ahead and start arranging for money in time to allow for handling necessary details, so the production credit association may have the money available on the date when it is required. Interest, of course, begins only when the money actually is advanced to the borrower, so he loses nothing by securing commitment of the loan in plenty of time. Furthermore, in cases where funds are required at intervals thruout a period of perhaps several months, a budgeted loan may be arranged in which specified sums are advanced at stated periods. This enables important savings, since interest is paid on each installment only as the money is actually advanced to the borrower."

Every county in the four states of Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky, and Tennessee is served by a production credit association, these organizations being under the supervision of the Production Credit corporation of Louisville.

Associate veterinarian (diseases affecting wild animal life), $3,200 a year. Bureau of biological survey, department of agriculture. Specified education and experience required. Closing date, July 23.

A Newspaper Policy

A newspaper exists to print the news and to support good acts and when necessary to criticize bad acts. A newspaper which yields or is swayed from doing its full duty by trimming its sails to grant favors to every passing whim cannot hold the public confidence. Honesty and equal consideration for all is desirable everywhere, but it is indispensable in a newspaper.

Enjoying Visit

COUNTY BUDGET ACT

Frankfort, Ky., July 4.—The county budget act passed by the 1934 general assembly became effective on July 1, 1934. Al lforms for the installation of county budgets and for maintenance of budget records have been approved and sent out by the state inspector and examiner's office to all county judges of the state. A force of fourteen experienced assistant inspectors and examiners, especially trained for this work, have been assigned to all parts of the state, beginning work on Monday, July 2, to cooperate with the county budget commissions and fiscal courts in putting into operation the new county budget system, according to Nat B. Sewell, state inspector and examiner.

Mr. Sewell says there are, at this time, approximately one third of the counties of the state that are using some kind of budget system in the handling of their fiscal affairs. Such changes as may be necessary to bring about full conformity with the new act may be made at any time within the next fiscal year. Approximately two thirds of the counties of the state have never operated under a budget system. A large majority of these counties have requested that the system be installed at once. Mr. Sewell believes that all such counties will be operating under the uniform budget system within the next sixty days.

The experience of those counties already operating under a budget system shows conclusively that a very positive saving in revenue and a more satisfactory system of operation of the fiscal affairs have been effected thru the following of the budgetary plan, Mr. Sewell said. While the new budget law makes it compulsory for all counties to operate under the provisions of the 1934 act, the adoption may be made at any time within the next fiscal year.

Mr. Sewell states that responses to questionnaires sent to all the county judges of the state show that a very large majority of all the counties in the state desire to begin operations under the 1934 act at the earliest date possible. "As a result of investigations made in all the counties of the state in the last two and a half years, I am fully convinced that every county in the state will save revenue by adherence to a budget system, and the aggregate of such savings in the commonwealth will certainly exceed a million dollars the first year," Mr. Sewell said.

BEAUTY PAGEANT UNDER WAY

Miss Charlotte Russell of Morganfield, Kentucky, has arrived and has taken charge of the beauty pageant which is being sponsored by Holly Coffee Post No. 68 of the American Legion. This pageant is being conducted in connection with a state-wide program of the American Legion. The winner of the local pageant will be sent to a district pageant to be held at Morehead, Kentucky, on July 19, with all expenses paid. The winner of the district pageant will be sent to the state convention at Ashland in August with all expenses paid, and the winner at the convention at Ashland will be sent to the national convention at Miami, Florida, in October. The judges will be selected from some other Legion Posts and will not be personally acquainted with any of the entrants of the pageant.

This pageant will be given at the high school auditorium in West Liberty on July 10 at 730 o'clock p.m., and will be a county-wide affair. Miss Russell will visit a number of the neighboring towns and villages and will accept the entries for this pageant and she must have the cooperation of the members of the post in working up this pageant if it is to be a success. It is anticipated that there will be from 35 to 40 girls who will participate in this event and there will be a number of novelty numbers on the program. These specialty numbers will all be home talent and will be well worth the price of the admission.

The girls who take part in the pageant will not be permitted to wear bathing suits, but must wear street clothes or evening clothes.

Miss Russell wishes to express her appreciation for the cooperation already extended her by the girls of West Liberty, and she hopes she will receive the same sort of assistance from the girls all over the county.

Visiting Here

Mr. and Mrs. Luther McWhorter and Mrs. McWhorter's sister Carma, of Hamilton, Ohio, visited relatives and friends in the north part of the county the early part of this week, returning Tuesday to their Ohio home.

WOULD BOYCOTT FILMS

New York, June 25.—The organized drive by organized religious bodies against objectionable motion pictures was indorsed June 23 at a meeting of the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches. The sentiment of the meeting favored recommending that members of Protestant denominations in the United States and Canada cooperate with the Legion of Decency, a Roman Catholic organization pledged to stay away from theaters that show films regarded by it as objectionable.

Cognizance of country-wide threats of boycotts against vicious films has been taken by the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America, inc., in a revision of its methods of self-regulation, according to Will H. Hays, motion picture tsar. The appeal board that has been operating in Hollywood, with power to overrule the industry's production code administration's recommendations, has been abolished.

Final responsibility for passing upon the character of films made now rests in New York with the board of directors of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors. It is stated that the authority of the production code administration, working directly in contact with the studios, will be increased, and continue its work under Joseph I. Breen as director.

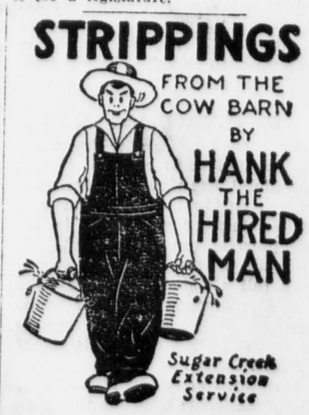

The Federal Council of Churches committee also recommended that Protestants refuse to patronize motion picture theaters "which persistently show indecent or otherwise objectionable pictures or offensive vaudeville features, or which use questionable forms of advertising."

Noted Lecturer to Come

Judge Fred G. Bale, a noted Chatauqua orator, has been secured for a lecture to be given at the West Liberty Methodist church on Thursday evening, July 12, at 8 o'clock. The lecture is entitled "The Fiddler and the Fire," or "The Truth about Youth," and is of especial interest to parents and teachers. This extra special lecture will be a real treat. No admission will be charged.

Could Do Better

When the Courier-Journal pointed out that the special session of the legislature had cost the people of the state more than $100,000, a member of that body figured it out that when distributed among all the population the cost would be only about 5 cents per head. So far as I am concerned, if I had the nickel I would not spend it for a legislature.

FARMERS' COLUMN

The Farm and Home

It is estimated that there are 30,000 farms in Kentucky which could be limed with marl within a two and one half mile haul, giving an unusual opportunity for using this material. Soil lying above a marl outcrop often needs liming, while that below an outcrop usually does not, because the marl has worked down into it.

Shade and clean drinking water are two poultry raising essentials for midsummer. A shade should be made, if trees or open buildings are not available. Good drikning water should be supplied in clean containers twice daily.

Late lambs or lambs not ready for market by July 1 should be treated for worms when 10 weeks or three months old and every month thereafter. The whole flock should be treated during the fall and be sent into winter free from worms.

Products to be canned should be mature, neither over nor under ripe, medium in size, free from blemishes and decay. Non-acid vegetables should be canned immediately after gathering. One hour from garden to jar is a good rule.

Cold milk is a delicious summer drink. Either whole or skimmed, it is exceptionally palatable on a hot day, when properly cold, and serves both as food and as a drink. Many persons who think they ordinarily dislike milk relish it cold in summer.

Close clipping may do extensive damage to lawns, especially in dry hot weather of midsummer. Set the mower to cut as high as possible, and clip the lawn often enough to keep it from looking unkempt.

Use of Rented AAA Land

Lexington, Ky., June 30.—Numerous inquiries are being received at the agricultural experiment station from farmers, asking how land rented to the secretary of agriculture, in the AAA program, can now be used.

Officials at the experiment station again call attention of farmers who have signed corn, tobacco, or wheat contracts that rented acres can be used for grazing of all classes of livestock.

The rented acres can also be used to produce forage crops for all classes of livestock, except that corn and grain sorghums for fodder may not be included.

Farmers may harvest the seed of lespedeza, bluegrass, timothy, orchard grass, clovers, meadow fescue, brome grass, crested wheat grass, and similar pasture and meadow crops from rented acres, without restriction as to sale or use. They may not, however, harvest the seed of soybeans, cowpeas, field peas, sorghums, and similar grains.

Total acres planted for harvest may be increased above the acres so planted on the farms under contract in 1932 or 1933, whichever is higher, in so far as the increase is due to the larger acreage of forage crops.

Farmers Did Better

By producing more home grown feeds, and by reducing their general farm expenses, 169 farmers who kept records in cooperation with the Kentucky college of agriculture increased their net earnings over $600 each in 1933 over 1932.

In 1932 the 169 farmers had an average loss of $26, while the following year their books showed profits averaging $588. Their total expenses, including 5 percent interest on their investments, averaged $1,844 in 1932 and $1,680 in 1933. Their receipts, including farm products used in the household, averaged $1,818 in 1932 and $2,268 the following year.

All were general farmers, growing wheat, corn, tobacco, and hays, and raising hogs and sheep and milking an average of seven cows.

At the suggestion of the college of agriculture, they increased the production of legume hay in 1933, and reduced the feeding of grain. This helped to increase their incomes from livestock, especially from sheep and dairy cows.

Half-Year Profit

Seventyeight farmers cooperating with the Kentucky college of agriculture in demonstrating improved poultry practices reported an average profit of 77 cents per hen for the first half of the present laying year. The 9,251 hens in the 78 flocks laid an average of 80 eggs in the six months. Receipts totaled $15,148; expenses, $7,977, and profits $7,171. Demonstration flocks owners made an average profit of $1.25 per hen for the 1932 laying year.

BOB JONES' COMMENTS

Some of the biggest fools in the world are the modernistic, rationalistic, communistic writers in this country. Recently an editorial writer said in substance: "The Bob Jones college located at Cleveland, Tennessee, standing as it does for the old time religion and the old conservative traditions of America, will be a hindrance to the development of the Tennessee Valley." What a fool that fellow is!

The men who built the first colleges in this nation and who were the pioneers of progress were men who believed what this writer believes and what the Bob Jones college stands for. Jonathan Edwards believed in God and heaven and hell, but he believed in culture. The most cultured people I know are the people who believe the Bible and believe in God. The most superficial and ignorant people I have ever met are the type of people who think that progress and the old time religion don't go together.

There is no progress which will be permanent except the progress built upon God, religion, and decency. All other progress leads to anarchy and to destruction. The trouble with the world now is we haven't kept our religious development apace with our commercial development. Recently a brilliant orator said he had rather have one east Tennessean with his children fighting in the front yard, his string of red peppers on the wall, his old rifle on the rail, and his old woman in the kitchen singing "How Firm a Foundation," than to have all of the "Communistic culture in the world." This orator may seem to be an extremist, but he is right. I had rather have that old Tennessean believing in God than to have progress which leaves God out of the plan. However, it is possible to have all of our modern progress and to hold on to God and the traditions which have made America. If we don't have progress of that kind we will have anarchy sooner or later.

HOW

BALLOONS HAVE BEEN OF VALUE TO WEATHER MAN.—Originally aeronautics served meteorology. Now meteorology serves aeronautics. The balloons constructed in the United States were useful mainly as a means for exploring the atmosphere, according to W. R. Gregg, of the weather bureau of the Department of Agriculture. Back as far as 1784 an American scientist made daring balloon ascensions to add to knowledge of air movements above the earth.

When the World war gave aeronautics its great impetus, the need for a special weather service having a large number of stations and capable of issuing frequent reports on air conditions became apparent. The system of flying weather forecasts then inaugurated by the weather bureau was the forerunner of today's service of intensive, short-period route and trip forecasts that make it possible for pilots to chart a safe course.

Although planes also play an important part in obtaining data on which forecasts for flyers are based, balloons retain their place in sounding the air. A number of these balloons are equipped with meteorographs, light instruments designed to record pressure, temperature and humidity at various levels of the atmosphere.

How Chinese Found Use for Ugly Rhinoceroses

The ancient Chinese had some strange uses for the rhinoceros, according to a study reported by an archeologist of the Freer gallery of the Smithsonian institution. One form of torture was to wrap a political prisoner in the hide of a freshly killed rhinoceros. As the hide dried, it contracted and slowly crushed the victim. Thus, one record from the year 681 B. C. tells of a prisoner wrapped in a rhinoceros hide and sent to an adjacent state. According to the record he arrived at his destination "with his hands and feet protruding from the ends of the roll."

Another use the ancient Chinese had for rhinoceros skins was for covering funeral cars. Also, the armor of the bronze age warriors was made of it.

Some archeologists have believed the ancient tribes employed rhinoceros horns for drinking cups, but according to philological study, they hardly could have been used for this purpose. Early records speak of "ssu kuang" which held as much as seven "sheng"—almost four quarts. But although the word "ssu" in late times is used to indicate the rhinoceros, no horn of any of the Asian varieties of this animal could have contained that quantity.

How to Can Fruit Without Sugar

Prepare jars, rubber rings and tops as usual for any canning process. Select and prepare the fruit as usual, taking care to select firm fruit. Fill the jars with equal weights of fruit and water. Screw on the tops tightly. Sterilize the fruit and jars by placing them in a kettle or boiler of hot water. There should be a rack in the bottom of the kettle to prevent the jars from touching it. Bring the water in the boiler to the boiling point and boil for 30 minutes. Remove the jars from the boiling water, take off the tops and add boiling water to fill the jars to overflowing. Put on the clean rubber rings, then put on the tops, seal and turn upside down until cold.

How Studios Are Soundproof

The studios in Radio City have "floating" walls, floors and ceilings, which are separated and installed from the framework of the skyscraper. They are like suspended boxes and each is surrounded by tons of rock-wool covered by cork and textile. Eleven carloads of rock-wool and 153,600 square feet of perforated transite were used in the soundproofing. Transite is a specially woven and treated textile. Every point of contact between the studio and the building is heavily padded. To aid the acoustical effect, several of the studios have sliding panels in the walls which may be operated from the control rooms.

How Sculptor's Putty Is Made

Two parts by weight of kaolin, or powdered soapstone (bone dry), and one part of wheat flour are stirred into three parts of melted white wax, not too hot, and well kneaded before cooling. The mass may be colored to suit. Modeling clay can be made from dry clay mixed with glycerin in place of water, but must be thoroughly kneaded with the hands if the mass be small, while for larger masses a power kneading and mixing machine is necessary. The modeling clay should be moistened with water every few days and covered with wet cloths.

How St. Jo, Mo., Got Name

In 1826 Joseph Robidoux, a French half-breed from St. Louis, established an Indian trading post on this site, known as Blacksnake Hills. After the Platte Purchase in 1836 other settlers came in and in 1843 Robidoux laid out a town, which he named in honor of his patron saint. It became the county seat in 1846 and an incorporated city in 1851.

How "Cutlass" Has Progressed

The long weapon known as a "cutlass" was a curved sword with a blade usually about 27 inches long and 1 inch wide. It was formerly used on men-of-war as a sidearm.

CHEVROLET Reductions amounting to as much as $50—the most substantial price cuts announced in the low-price field this year—have dropped Chevrolet's base price to a new low figure of $465. Just compare this price—compare any Chevrolet price—with those of other cars. Then compare what you get for what you pay! There'll be no question in your mind which car to buy.

Chevrolet offers patented Knee-Action—and others do not! The same thing applies to Fisher body, cable-controlled brakes, Y-K frame, shock-proof steering, and 80-horsepower, valve-in-head six-cylinder engine. Yet the price of the Chevrolet Standard is lower than that of any other six or any eight in the world.

FOR A THIRSTY SUMMER

IT isn't necessary for a man or woman, boy or girl, to go "somewhere East of Suez" to raise a thirst in summer. Our American summers always provide us with thirsts which we can contemplate with great satisfaction, as a nation, when we are comparing them with other thirsts. In fact our American summers have done more than that, for invention has followed our need, and we have a greater variety of delicious thirst quenching drinks in this country than in any other in the world.

It may be our more liberal use of ice that has enabled us to do this, but, on the other hand, it is equally likely to be our more liberal use of all sorts of delicious ingredients, each one of which lends its special flavor to a concoction so that tastes of every sort can be pleased and all thirsts assuaged. At any rate, here are some of the best of them, which have not only been carefully tested by a graduate dietitian, but won't do you any harm because they are not of the kind Kipling had in mind when he advised that trip to the Far East, but temperance drinks, every one of them.

Tomato Drinks

No other country has made as much use of the tomato as this one in making delicious and healthful drinks. Here are a couple of the latest variations on straight tomato juice:

Sparkling Tomato Beverage: Add the juice of one lemon, one tablespoon sugar and salt to taste to the contents of two 10-ounce cans of tomato juice, and have very cold. Add half a pint of ice cold charged water, and serve at once in small glass cups. This will make six cups.

Tomatoade: Heat two cups of strained tomato juice, or the contents of a 15-ounce can, and one-fourth cup sugar to boiling to dissolve the sugar. Add one-fourth cup lemon juice and one-half teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, and chill. Serve very cold in cocktail glasses. Serves six.

Plums and Apricots

Many fruits have been called upon to assuage the fever of our summer thirsts. Here are two recipes in which plums and apricots play their parts:

Irish Flipp: Boil one cup sugar and one cup water for a few minutes, tint with green coloring, and cool. Add the contents of a No. 2½ can of green gage plums, pressed through a sieve, one-half cup fresh lime juice and two pints charged water. Serve with ice, and garnish with a sprig of mint and a green cherry. Makes nine cups.

Golden Goblet: Steep one teaspoon tea in one cup boiling water for two minutes, and strain. Add four tablespoons sugar, and cool. Press the contents of an 8-ounce can of apricots through a sieve, and add with one cup orange juice and four tablespoons lemon juice. Serve over crushed ice with a garnish of sliced orange. Makes three cups.

Pineapple, Of Course

The drinks made of pineapple juice are legion. A good summer egg nog is made with it in this way.

Pineapple Egg Nog: Put two eggs, two tablespoons sugar and the contents of two 12-ounce cans pineapple juice into a cocktail shaker or jar, add cracked ice, and shake until well mixed and frothy. Serve with a sprinkling of nutmeg on top. Makes four and a half cups.

Hawaiian Chocolate Drink: Boil together one 13-ounce can of chocolate syrup, two and a half cups water, and four tablespoons sugar for three or four minutes. Add one cup thin cream or evaporated milk, and chill. Add the contents of a 12-ounce can of pineapple juice, and pour over crushed ice. This makes six cups. If you like, shake it in a jar or cocktail shaker.

Fruit Beer: Dissolve one-third cup confectioner's sugar in one and a half cups fruit syrups (peach, grapefruit, etc.) and three tablespoons lemon juice. Beat one egg white stiff, and pour fruit juices over, beating constantly. Pour on two pints ice cold ginger ale, and serve at once over cracked ice. This makes eight tall or sixteen punch glasses.

Mr. and Mrs. Beckham Caskey and son Harry E., of Pontiac, Michigan, arrived here last Friday to visit Mr. Caskey's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Caskey. Accompanying them also were Mrs. Burns Caskey and son Robert.

Science Battles Alfalfa Disease

Specialists Endeavoring to Conquer Bacterial Wilt Through Midwest.

Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.—WNU Service.

In the very heart of the alfalfa belt—Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado, Iowa and Illinois—the bacterial wilt has been spreading, reducing yields, and cutting short the profitable life of alfalfa stands. Specialists have learned that the planting of a resistant variety is the best counterattack. They are testing resistant strains and are breeding new varieties to combine good qualities with resistance to the disease.

Bacterial wilt dwarfs the plant—thus reducing yields—and causes a yellowing of the leaves. Infected plants usually die after a year or so, leaving space for weeds to creep in and injure the quality of the hay. In Nebraska many growers have been letting alfalfa grow as a semi-permanent hay crop, not included in rotations. Where wilt is severe many fields now cease to be profitable after three to five years. Unfortunately, some of the hardiest alfalfas—Grimm and Cossack—are attacked severely by wilt.

To combat wilt, the United States Department of Agriculture sent a representative to the Caucasus and Turkestan in 1929 in search of resistant varieties. Under tests the Turkestan alfalfas have varied considerably in wilt resistance and in hardness. Laboratory and greenhouse work has speeded these tests. Plants grown under glass are then subjected to winter temperature produced artificially to test their hardiness. In tests of wilt resistance, alfalfa seedlings grow in a greenhouse through the winter. In spring they are inoculated with wilt and transplanted. By fall the specialists can give a close estimate of their wilt resistance.

Scientists are carrying on an intensive breeding program with a view to developing resistant hybrids that yield heavily and that do not have some of the other undesirable characteristics of Turkestan alfalfa.

Seek Serum for Plague Infecting Farm Horses

Unusually numerous cases of infectious equine encephalomyelitis, sometimes erroneously called sleeping sickness, have been reported to the United State Department of Agriculture in recent months. This malady which affects the brain and spinal cord of horses and mules is not a new disease, the department points out. Studies of recent outbreaks in Maryland, Delaware and Virginia, show that the disease is the same as the condition commonly termed "forage poisoning," "staggers," "Kansas-Nebraska horse plague," and "cerebro-spinal meningitis." The disease sometimes goes by still other names.

Intensive studies by the department show that the disease is of an infectious nature and is caused by an invisible virus. This virus produces a disease which is very similar to one reported several years ago in California and which has occurred also in other states west of the Mississippi. However, it has been found that the eastern virus possesses certain distinct characteristics different from the virus causing the western disease. The efficacy of serum against the disease has been questioned and laboratory experimentation is in progress.

Don't Feed Whole Soys

The problem of soft pork has been a serious one in certain hog producing sections for many years, notes the Prairie Farmer. Some markets get a large proportion of these hogs and necessarily buy on a lower price range than the markets of the corn belt. In recent years soybeans have been introduced into the corn belt, and because of low prices many farmers feed them to hogs. Soybeans contain a high percentage of oil, and this oil causes soft pork. While soybeans are valuable as a hog feed for their high protein content they should not be fed to hogs that will be marketed. Feeding of the meal after the oil is removed is safe and does not cause soft pork.

Kill the Woodchucks

Woodchuck holes are a great nuisance. They may cause a horse to break a leg, while the mounds may break the cutting bar of a mower or at least blunt the knives. Search out all of the holes and plug up all exits. Into the entrance either put calcium cyanide or else use the exhaust of an automobile. To use the automobile attach a pipe and run the engine for twenty minutes, then plug up the hole and go to the next burrow. In the case of cyanide also the burrow must be carefully closed, preferably with damp earth. When using both these methods care must be taken.

Soil From Salt Marshes

Black soil from salt marshes in all probability contains certain amounts of nitrogen, phosphoric acid, and potash and, while not as readily available as in commercial fertilizer, will add some plant food in the soil. The organic matter in the black soil will also be of considerable value in improving the physical condition of the cultivated lands, especially if they are sand or of a sandy nature. Where the cost is not too high, the application would be profitable.

You're The Loser

I have been using Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for thirty years. No matter what kind of pain I have, they stop it almost instantly. Never without them in the house.
Mrs. Chas. W. Webb, Indio, Calif.

WHEN you allow Headache, Neuralgia, Muscular, Rheumatic, Sciatic or Periodic Pains to keep you from work or pleasure.

You can't go places and do things when you are suffering—and the work or good times won't wait for you.

Why allow Pain to rob you of Health, Friends, Happiness, Money?

DR. MILES ANTI-PAIN PILLS have been used for the relief of pain for more than forty years. They taste good, act quickly, do not upset the stomach, nor cause constipation, leave no dull, depressed feeling.

Thousands have used them for twenty, thirty, forty years, and still find that nothing else relieves pain so promptly and effectively.

Why don't you try them? Once you know how pleasant they are to take, how quickly and effectively they relieve, you won't want to go back to disagreeable, slow acting medicines.

You too may find quick relief. Why wait forty minutes for relief when Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills will relieve you in ten to twenty minutes?

As a household remedy I have never found anything that equalled Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. Mrs. Silas D. Keller, Penfield, Pa.

I never found anything that was so good to stop pain as Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills. I have told many about them and I find they are all using them. Mrs. Martha Lacy, Davenport, Iowa

I have been using Dr. Miles Anti-Pain Pills for years. I keep them on hand all the time. I can certainly recommend them for pain. Miss Audra Seybold, 2417 W. 2nd St., Dayton, Ohio

This neighborhood was visited Sunday about noon by the most severe electric storm and downpouring rain it has had for years. The wind tore down timber and blew down corn, and the rain drowned young chickens and turkeys. That goes to show you that God in His infinite wisdom can cause a "cut out" when He sees we deserve it, just the same as the president and congress. Look if you please at the great destruction of crops in different states caused by God's omnipotent hand, and yet there are people who will tell you, "It just so happened." People in this great wide domain of God's (not ours) will say we'll cut your crops, and kill your hogs and cattle, and tell you what you can work at, and how long you can work, and just how small a wage he will pay you. When will the end be? Let us hope for the better. COW BOY
